THEATRICAL

THE OVERHOLSER.

"Snappy" is the word that best describes the action portrayed in Gus Hill's production of "Bringing Up Father," the comedy taken from the world famous cartoons of that name by George McManus, and which was presented at the Overholser last night. Careful choice of characters was shown in the production, and the characters of Jiggs Mahoney, "Father," and Mrs. Jiggs Mahoney, "Mother," as portrayed by Tom Haverly and Miss Sadie Duff, made as decided a hit as have the cartoons of the two famous personages in the Sunday papers. The parts of Father and Mother Mahoney, the stellar comedy parts of the play, were well presented. Full of Irish humor and speaking in a broad Irish brogue, the pair were decidedly the catch of the play and brought repeated encores in response to their humorous sketches. Dancing was beautifully illustrated by Miss Daisy Davenport as Percy Mahoney, Clyde Fern as Willie McGee, May Walsh as Eleanor Mahoney and Jerry Hays as Tom Hamilton. Supported by a pretty reception at the Metropolitan last night when they presented the popular play, "The Man From Home." Taylor made a big hit with the audience was repeatedly greeted with applause. The general impression of those who attended the production last night was that the whole cast is unusually strong and that the acting of most of the parts is up to the standard of some of the best high priced shows. The stage setting was appropriate and the costumes elegant and well adapted to the various characters. Albert Taylor as John Henry Pike of Bowling Green, Mo., kept the audience continually laughing with his droll philosophy and superb humor. Mr. Taylor is well known in Oklahoma City, having played here at various times for several years. Miss Maude Hollingsworth made a most creditable showing as the leading woman of the company. All members of the company were so good that all who attended the play were well pleased and repetitions of the good house recorded the new stock company last night are assured.

THE FOLLY.

Musical comedy, vaudeville, Zudora and five other reels of feature and comedy pictures, make up the program at the Folly for this afternoon and evening. "The Mystery of the Perpetual Glare" is the title of the Zudora feature. It shows Margaret Snow in the most thrilling experiences imaginable. It shows how the entire top of a mountain is undermined and blown up with dynamite. It is perhaps the greatest picture ever shown in an Oklahoma City theater. In addition to this picture there are other first run feature and comedy reels and the musical comedy company featuring Suzanne Carter furnishes the best to be had in the line of singing and dancing. There is an excellent chorus of very pretty girls. The Mudee-Morton trio furnish a splendid novelty musical act. Tonight Zudora will be shown three times.

ASK FOR EARLY TRIAL

Plaintiff in Big Suit Against Petroleum Company Is Afflicted With Cancer and in a Hospital.

That Florence Lowery is in a hospital in this city in a condition of absolute helplessness and poverty by reason of a malignant cancer, and for that reason the suit in which she is plaintiff should be set for early hearing was stated by W. A. Ledbetter, one of the attorneys for the woman, in a motion before the supreme court this morning asking that the appeal be advanced.

Florence Lowery brought suit against the Southwestern Petroleum company and others in Carter county claiming title to valuable oil lands said to be worth $100,000. She failed to recover judgment in the trial court and appealed. The court agreed to advance the case, but will not set the date of hearing until later.

Annette Kellerman, the second Venus, who will appear in "Neptune's Daughter" at the Overholser during the next eight days, matinee and night, beginning tomorrow afternoon.

Chorus of a dozen fancy dancers, the two couples made their dances one of the better attractions of the production. The part of Mrs. Holmes, the society adviser of "mother" as portrayed by Miss Nell Winter, was strikingly played. The butler, Oswald, nicknamed by father "Flossie," was a good type of the half and half sort of man. He was well received and helped the leading comedians well in their work. The play is centered around the attempt of Mrs. Mahoney, the wife of a former sectionhand, but now millionaire, to bring her husband up in society. In doing this she means to keep him away from beer and the many ways in which he tries to elude her and "rush the growler," only to be caught before he gets a sip of the coveted brew, brings about the best laughs the comedians received. The play will be presented again tonight.

When "Neptune's Daughter" with Annette Kellerman in the title role comes to the Overholser tomorrow matinee for an engagement of eight days, both matinee and night, the playgoers of this city will have an opportunity of witnessing one of the greatest motion picture plays ever projected on the screen. It had its premier in New York at the Globe theater where it is still running to capacity audiences and should attain a record of three hundred performances. Annette Kellerman, who enacts the title role and is known throughout the world as one of the greatest diving and swimming experts, has for many years been a headliner, both on the Kiehl and Orpheum circuits. She is also recognized among women as possessing a figure the measurement of which corresponds with Venus of immortal fame. "Neptune's Daughter" was filmed on the shores of Bermuda, an ideal spot for the locale of a moving picture play because of its wondrous flowers and picturesque scenery.

BUTCHER'S HOGS GONE

Slaughtered Animals Disappeared and Police Are Unable to Find Any Trace of Them Today.

W. H. Butcher, owner of an Oklahoma City meat market, would like to know the name and address of every family who is going to have a pork for their Christmas dinner, and what is even more astonishing, he would with the greatest of pleasure and without the slightest pang of remorse take the said pork from a certain man and give that one a free lodging at the city jail.

The trouble for Mr. Butcher started when he butchered two big hogs at his market, 410 West Second street. After killing and cleaning the porkers he hung them up, and when he went to get them and lock them up for the night found himself minus two good hogs. Consequently the police are looking for pigs with their sure steady methods and Butcher is looking for pigs and the man. No trace of the pork Christmas dinner has been found.

Justice Donnell Holds Mrs. Tomlin, Divorced, on Charge of Planning to Poison Wife No. 2.

Bail for Mrs. Emma F. Tomlin, divorced wife of Lee Tomlin, wealthy real estate man of this city, was fixed at $1,000 at the conclusion of Mrs. Tomlin's preliminary trial. Justice Donnell's court on the charge of attempting to affect the poisoning of Mrs. Jennie L. Tomlin, present wife of Lee Tomlin.

Mrs. Nellie Sullivan, 210 West Fourth street, with whom Mr. Tomlin and his present wife live, was the chief witness and testified that Mrs. Emma Tomlin had offered her $100 to poison Mrs. Tomlin No. 2. After this offer, she says, she notified the court attorney's office and arranged with the officers for a meeting with Mrs. Emma Tomlin. A dictagraph was installed which recorded the conversation and the record thus obtained was introduced in the preliminary by Assistant County Attorney John W. Choate.
